Company description:

This startup has developed a system that makes marketing decisions based on their own created algorithms and completes tasks with online professionals. Their services are for SEO, social media and ads management decisions based on their user's data. Right now they have more than 160 customers in 10 different countries.

Their system is currently working. The algorithm processes digital marketing decisions and automatically assigns a roadmap according to the sectors of the companies. In addition, 30% of digital marketing actions are done by their system and the remaining 70% is assigned to people as a task who work for online freelancers. For example, the system completely handles Google ads management and decides and implements itself. The vision of the company is to use and develop this system for other areas of digital marketing as well in the future.

Business Model:

This SaaS system has a monthly subscription model.
